The UNC School of Government is like no other school, organization, or institution in the country. Our unique mission and values make us the single best source of support for North Carolinians seeking to understand and improve their government.

Every year our faculty offers more than 200 courses and webinars, responds to thousands of phone calls and emails on routine and urgent matters, and publishes approximately 50 books, manuals, articles, and reports—all to support our state’s cities, counties, judicial officials, state public officials, and citizens in understanding and improving state and local government.

The increasing complexity of challenges facing North Carolina creates a greater demand for faculty expertise from the School of Government. Your gift today helps ensure the School of Government will have the resources to continue to provide timely non-partisan training, advice, and expertise that addresses the growing challenges facing North Carolina.

Please consider making a gift to support the School today, on UNC's annual day of giving. Your gift is an investment in North Carolina's public officials and communities.

Thank you,

Aimee N. Wall
